Brightsun Technologies, Inc. announces the release of FormPro software, a groundbreaking tool in life care planning
June 19, 2009

Brightsun Technologies, Inc. is pleased to announce the commercial release of FormPro, a unique software product for life care planners and for attorneys who deal with personal injury cases. Nearly three years in the making, FormPro is designed to support defensible, evidence based medical opinion by providing customizable medical provider input forms with research-based content.

Medical opinion is a key factor in personal injury cases, and the more thoroughly physicians consider a client's needs, the more valuable their opinions are. FormPro was created to facilitate comprehensive consideration of all needs that clients with a particular injury may have. Users can quickly create provider input forms with injury-specific content based on peer-reviewed research. A wealth of detail helps minimize the possibility that errors or omissions will be made in the reporting of a client's needs.

FormPro also includes a searchable database of references to peer-reviewed professional literature that life care planners and attorneys can use when considering a plan's recommendations. The database may be searched by keyword, injury type, age category, or source type for quick reference to thousands of published works germane to long-term care.

"As a rehabilitation counselor and life care planner, I was bothered by the large amount of time I had to spend determining what treatments, tests, and complications were or were not relevant to a particular injury," says Reg Gibbs, Brightsun Technologies CEO and Founder. "I decided to create a software system to increase efficiency and to make reporting of client needs more accurate. "

Customizability of form content is a major advantage that users of FormPro have. The services a client with one kind of injury needs can be quite different from those that clients with a different injury need. With a large database listing services associated with specific conditions, FormPro automatically builds a form appropriate for a client's particular injury.

"FormPro represents a major advance in the technique of obtaining medical opinion," says Gibbs. "We believe life care planners and attorneys alike will find the product very useful."

The software package is available through an annual subscription. A free trial download is available on the company website, www.brightsuntech.com.
